

Shoes That Mean Summer Happiness

Summer, and not mean foot discomfort—not if you wear the right kind of shoes.

But some women still fail to give their feet the same intelligent thought that they do other parts of their person. They take Turkish baths and general massage; they practice an advertised system of bodily exercises, they have facial treatments regularly, keep their hair in good condition and look well to the beauty of their hands, while they neglect their feet and permit them to be so uncomfortable, to give them so much unhappiness, that the discomfort and unhappiness are clearly reflected in their faces and in their ungraceful walk.

Many women, however, have learned that the

Cantilever Shoe For Men & Women

starts them at the foundation of physical and mental fitness by relieving them of all foot strain and discomfort.

A notable feature of Cantilever Shoes is the flexible arch, just like the arch of the human foot—which permits the muscles and ligaments to exercise normally and naturally with every step. This exercise strengthens the muscles and keeps the feet young and supple.

Cantilever shoes have always had the natural sole line, the comfortable rounded toe and the sensible walking heel which Dame Fashion now proclaims the style.

Cantilever Shoes for summer come in black and brown and white linen. Buy a pair to-morrow and let them mean summer happiness for you.

United States Attorney Ralph Greene in Brooklyn announced yesterday the appointment of Francis X. Giaccone and Howard Osterhouse as Assistant United States Attorneys to succeed John Ego and Peter J. Brando, respectively. They will take office immediately. The change was the result of the shifting of the office from Democratic to Republican leadership. Giaccone, formerly represented the Nineteenth Assembly District of Kings in the Legislature and was defeated for re-election last year. Osterhouse was a Captain of Engineers during the war, is a graduate of Columbia University and Columbia Law School, and for five years was secretary to Secretary of State Hugo. His home is in Freeport.

QUIZZES BROKERS FULLER PATRONIZED

Prosecutor Tries Indirect Method, Bankrupts Refusing to Open Books.

DATA FOR GRAND JURY

Will Try Again This Week to Seize Firm's Records, but Experts Fight.

One of the alternative methods devised by District Attorney Banton to obtain facts about defunct brokerage houses which refuse to open their books for his inspection, was tried yesterday in the case of E. M. Fuller & Co., of 50 Broad street, stock brokers of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, who failed June 27 for an estimated $5,000,000.

Five stock brokers with whom the Fuller concern had accounts were subpoenaed and appeared before Benjamin P. Schreiber, Assistant District Attorney, and his assistants. The prosecutors quizzed the men and examined their records for data that will be presented to the Grand Jury this week. The names of the brokers who were subpoenaed were kept secret. Although Mr. Schreiber made no direct statement to the effect, it is understood valuable information was obtained from them.

Mr. Banton emphasized that his investigation of the Fuller company has been hampered by two conditions. First, the action of the bankrupts, who stipulated when they turned their books over to the receiver that they should not be available to the District Attorney, and second, the fact that many of the complainants against the concern are from out of town. He makes the request that any persons living in New York who lost money through alleged bucketing of their orders call upon him at his office.

Although he is certain the firm will seek a court order restraining him from seeking the books, yet Mr. Banton intends issuing a subpoena for them this week. He said he desired the case to follow that of S. S. Ruskay & Co., another bankrupt firm, to the higher courts, as test cases.

Mr. Banton declared he was glad the stipulation of their constitutional rights by Fuller and his partner, Frank McGee, had received so much publicity, as it had aroused the public to the injustice of the situation and showed how necessary was his advocacy for some system of licensing of brokers.

Mr. Banton said he had suggested once to the Stock Exchange that they might inaugurate a policy whereby as a condition of membership brokers agree to open their books to the District Attorney. "But that was no good," he added. "Seymour L. Cromwell, president of the New York Stock Exchange, threw up his hands in horror and shed crocodile tears at the very thought of it."

The District Attorney said both the Consolidated and Curb exchanges had done everything he has asked of them, but that the New York body opposed him in the blocking of his blue sky law in the Legislature last winter.

MRS. BURTON LOSES PLEA TO ADJOURN WILL SUIT
Surrogate Would Hear German Witnesses Now.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 8.—The application of Mrs. Claire Louise Burton for an adjournment until November of her contest of the will of her husband, the late Frank V. Burton, was denied by Surrogate Elwood C. Smith today.

The Surrogate stipulated, however, that if Mrs. Burton would agree to having testimony taken here Tuesday morning of witnesses brought from Germany by the estate the rest of the case could go over. If she would not agree to this proposal the case, he decided, must be heard as scheduled, on or about July 24. The attitude of Mrs. Burton's attorney on this suggestion has not been announced.

CROTON DAM CATARACT IS HEARD FIVE MILES
$390,000 Worth of Water Wasted in 24 Hours.

Employees of the New York city waterworks reported an overflow of almost thirteen inches in depth early yesterday over the spillway of the Cornell dam of the Croton reservoir, which exceeds all records there since the dam was completed sixteen years ago. The roar of the tremendous rush of water, falling 150 feet, could be heard five miles.

About 2,900,000 gallons of water tumbled to waste down the spillway, which is about 1,250 feet wide, and made the mightiest cataract ever seen at Croton. Figured at wholesale rates charged in New York for water, the thirteen inch overflow meant a loss in twenty-four hours of water worth $390,000.

JERSEY BANK TELLER SEIZED IN $4,000 THEFT
Police Say Schwartz Admits Shortage in Accounts.

Robert C. Schwartz of 44 Webster avenue, Jersey City, a receiving teller of the Hoboken branch of the Trust Company of New Jersey, was arrested yesterday by Inspector Daniel Kiely of Hoboken, following an alleged confession that he had taken for his own use about $4,000 of the bank's funds. He was charged with grand larceny on the complaint of George A. Berger, vice-president of the trust company.

The money was taken between March 2 and June 30, it was alleged, an examination of the books disclosing the shortage. Schwartz will be arraigned to-morrow before Recorder Carsten in Hoboken.

MME. VICHAT, WARD OF CITY, LEFT FORTUNE OF $13,000

Aged Opera Singer's Last Years Spent in Hoarding and Eccentricities, After Life of Romance, Travel and Deprivation.

Mme. Sidonie Vichat, who sang in grand opera with Mme. Schumann-Heink a generation ago, died in a sanitarium at Central Islip, L. I., last month. It became known yesterday. Stranger than this fact was the discovery that she left an estate of approximately $13,000, after having been a city ward. The estate has been found to consist of bank books, cash and jewels tucked away in a safe deposit vault. Mme. Vichat was 70 years old.

Back of the discovery of her modest estate, which exceeded any hopes of her two beneficiaries, however, lies the story of years of self-denial, of eccentricity, of strange living ultimately for their benefit, and finally of weeks in the City Home for Aged and Infirm Women on Welfare Island, where she passed part of last summer before her commitment to the Central Islip institution.

The beneficiaries are a nephew, Robert Stevens, motion picture director, of 525 Milford avenue, City Island, and his sister, Mrs. James Crosby, who lives in Hillywood, Cal.

Mme. Vichat in later life lived with her nephew. Part of the money which she gave her and intended for her own use is now believed to have been hoarded in the bank by the aged singer. Some, in fact, may have gone into two trust funds, one of about $3,000 and another of less than $2,000, which have been left to Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Crosby.

In preference to living in the rooms which were provided for her whenever she wished to live away from her family, Mme. Vichat was known to have passed much time in the New York Central station at 125th street. She even slept in hallways in that vicinity, it is said, and when this refuge was denied her there were parks to which she went. Her aversion to spending money for herself finally moved her nephew to take steps for her better care. Last August she was at Welfare Island for several weeks, and later was sent to Central Islip.

Her life story as revealed at Welfare Island was like fiction. She spoke in some of the six languages which she had studied in the course of her operatic career, told of travels in Europe, and explained that by marriage she was a granddaughter of James Fenimore Cooper.

Her father, she said, was Gen. Brandt who went to Mexico with Maximilian. Her husband's family came from Lyons, where she also lived, and where a Grand General Solomon Vichat is reputed to have married a daughter of James Fenimore Cooper. The novelist was American Consul at Lyons from 1836 to 1839.

She also told of having sung with Schallch, Little Lehman and Schumann-Heink, of having parts in "Faust," "Aida" and "Lohengrin."

When her safe deposit box was opened in the vaults of the Corn Exchange Bank, Park avenue and 125th street, there were found five bank books, a small amount in cash, and jewelry valued at about $1,000, the entire contents representing more than $13,000.

the mainland, and the buildings now there could readily be converted to navy uses. In view of the dangers and difficulties set forth in your report, which an abandonment of Rockaway Point may occasion, this suggestion may seem worth an inquiry."

The island lies at the southern extremity of Jamaica Bay and is separated from Rockaway Point by Rockaway Inlet, a narrow body of water. Judge Talley declares that the island is sheltered by Rockaway Beach and Rockaway Point that aircraft could land and "take off" in the same waters they now use.

URGES AIR STATION ON BARREN ISLAND
Judge Talley Suggests Transfer From Rockaway Point.

The conversion of Barren Island into a naval air station in place of the present establishment on Rockaway Point, of which the Government has announced its abandonment, was suggested yesterday by Judge Alfred J. Talley of the Court of General Sessions.

Judge Talley, in letters sent to Admiral Moffet, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics at Washington, and to Admiral J. H. Glennon, commandant of the navy yard at Brooklyn, emphasized the ease with which the station could be transferred from its present site to the island.

Judge Talley is executor of the estate of the late Andrew White, which, with the city of New York, owns the greater part of the island. It is more than a mile long and approximately a half mile wide. Its use as a municipal dumping ground was almost wholly discontinued several years ago.

Admiral Moffet recently issued a statement pointing out that the proposed removal of the air station from Rockaway Point would leave New York at the mercy of enemy aircraft, under sea boats and warships in time of hostilities.

He wrote to Admiral Glennon: "The plants formerly operating on Barren Island have been practically discontinued. The island is now connected with the Flatbush avenue extension with

JAILED BY MARGIN DEALS, SAYS NATHAN

Ignorant of Stock Quotations, He First Lost His Savings of $28,000.

THEN SEIZED BY MANIA

Jewel Salesman Denies He Asked Others to Give Him Sums He Lost.

A mania for speculating in stocks and bonds, though ignorant of market quotations, is blamed by Iddore Nathan, jewelry salesman or peddler, for his plight as a grand larceny prisoner.

He came from Germany when a young man, married, worked hard and saved $28,000. He bought stocks on margin. The prices fell and the brokers demanded margin, always more margin. He lost his money and got funds from persons he knew. He bought fresh stocks, but they dropped and greedily took more margin.

"I was like a gambler," he confessed yesterday in his cell in the sweltering Tombs prison. "Something was in my blood and I couldn't keep away from the stock market. It made me crazy."

Nathan was arrested Thursday in Albany, after radio messages had been flashed over the high seas on the assumption he had started to Europe.

He is charged specifically with the theft of $7,500 worth of jewels from East Side jewelers, but he is alleged to have lost other persons' moneys totaling many more thousands.

He swore that he never kept a dollar of the money entrusted to him, with which to speculate, and that the books of Hirsch, Lillenthal & Co., bankers, would prove that. He declared the theft charges grew out of false alarms among jewelers from whom he had been getting articles on memorandum receipt or consignment for twenty years.

"They will lose nothing," he said. "I had with me when arrested all the articles I am charged with stealing except a few things I sold and for which I had the equivalent in money."

He said he had dealt with many different brokerage houses and that only one had "flimflammed" him. He denied that he had ever solicited funds for gambling purposes, although he admitted that workers on the Long Island Railroad to whom he had sold many watches offered their money to play in the market. He explained his trip to Albany on the ground that he had an appointment to meet a prospective jewelry customer there.

At the closing session of the Moose convention, resolutions were adopted favoring the modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture, sale and transportation of light wines and beer; advocating old age pensions, and denouncing the history text books in the public schools as misleading.

PERKINS HEIRS ASK DIVISION OF $602,869

Rest of $5,170,752 Estate Has Been Paid Out in Accordance With Will.

HUDSON SHIPS ARE SOLD

The Ontonago and Clermont Brought $553,000 From the Palisades Commission.

Mrs. Evelyn B. Perkins, George W. Perkins, Jr., and Lewis L. DeWolf, as executors and trustees of the estate of George W. Perkins, who died June 13, 1920, applied yesterday in the Surrogate's Court for a judicial settlement of the estate. Mr. Perkins left an estate of $5,170,752, according to the accounting which was filed with the petitions for a settlement. There is still available for distribution $602,869, the residue having been paid out in accordance with the will. Mrs. Perkins has received all her late husband's real and personal property and further shares amounting to $2,333,178. George W. Perkins, Jr., has received a specific legacy of $488,071 and the income from a $385,284 trust fund. Mrs. Dorothy Perkins Freeman, a daughter, inherited $291,647 and the income from a trust fund of $777,726. Miss Emily S. Perkins, a sister, received $50,000 and the income of a trust fund of $150,000.

Included among the provisions for those who had been employed by Mr. Perkins was a trust fund of $142,000 established to yield an income of $6,000 for Mary Kimm of Summit, who had been his secretary for twenty-seven years. Other employees have received bequests amounting to $20,000.

The accounting of the executors shows that Mr. Perkins purchased the steamers Ontonago and Clermont to ply on a route to the Palisades Interstate Park, in which he had been extensively interested.

The Lackawanna and Buffalo

By the completion of its tracks into Buffalo in 1882, the Lackawanna became a favorite route between New York, Buffalo and the West. The insignificant Pennsylvania coal road of 53 miles had grown within a short thirty years to a trunk line of national importance.

Today the Lackawanna is the shortest line between Buffalo and New York, cutting across the face of Nature by spanning six rivers and crossing three mountain chains. It is a road of magnificent scenery and stupendous engineering accomplishment. With its direct rail connections, it affords to travelers a delightful means of reaching via Buffalo not only Niagara Falls and the great tourist territory of central Canada, but also Chicago and all points west.

The location of the Lackawanna Buffalo terminal on the lake front means that tourists may literally step from car to boat in continuing their journey on the big passenger flyers of the Great Lakes. The building of this terminal and similar improvements of the last few years has called for an expenditure of approximately $80,000,000. Through them the Lackawanna has sought to perform more efficiently its duty as a carrier of the Nation's commerce and to merit by its service the distinction of being "Mile for mile the most highly developed railroad in America."
